

ABSTRACT

Methods are provided for empirically determining transcription levels of target genes based on the number of cis-acting elements provided in untranslated regulatory regions and for identifying the transcription binding motifs in the 5'

5 regulatory region of a target gene or gene family.